The 950th Time Is a Charm

Grandmother Cha Sa-Soon lived alone in a remote mountain village in South Korea. She always wanted to learn to drive but didn't try to get a license until she was in her 60's. She failed the written part of the driving test, not once, twice, or 10 times, but 949 times.

Having never driven, a lot of the test terminology was new to her, but she refused to quit. Finally, on her 950th try, she got a passing grade. On the actual "road test" she only failed four times before getting passing marks.

By this time, all of Korea knew about her persistence. Her triumph was celebrated and she became a national hero. She was even given a Kia Soul and appeared in one of their commercials, all because she wouldn't give up.

Who besides Grandmother Cha Sa-Soon has ever had to take a driving test 950 times before passing it? And who besides Grandmother Cha Sa-Soon has ever become a national hero for passing the written part of a driving test? The more difficult the test, the sweeter it is when we finally prevail.

Galatians 6:9

And let us not grow weary of doing good, for in due season we will reap, if we do not give up.

I love you all,

Tim

NEWS AND NOTES

- ❖ Dear Brothers and Sisters at Central, Thank you for all you have done for me since Glen's death. The brisket and ham were perfect, the service was well organized and smooth. Thank you for loving me and my family, thank you for standing with me through the darkness. Love, Toni Waldo

I will visit whenever I am in the area. Love to you all, Elizabeth Gabel
