THE BIBLE SAYS

Apostle Paul said, "For there is one God and one mediator between God and humanity, the man Christ Jesus" (1 Timothy 2:5). A mediator is one who mediates, that is, one who acts as an intermediary to work with opposing sides to bring about a settlement. A mediator attempts to influence a disagreement between two parties with the goal of resolve and reconciliation. Jesus is that mediator between people and God. This creates these questions. Why does God have a dispute with us? Why is Jesus our mediator? Why are we doomed if we try to represent ourselves?

God has a dispute with us because of sin. Sin is described in the Bible as transgression of the law of God and rebellion against God. God hates sin, and sin stands between all of us and Him. "There is no one righteous, not even one" (Romans 3:10). The only just penalty for this sin is death, eternal death (Romans 6:23). Nothing we could do on our own would be sufficient to rectify this situation. No amount of good works or law-keeping makes us righteous enough to stand before a holy God. By ourselves, salvation from eternal punishment is impossible.

Jesus represents those who have faithfully answered His call unto salvation. He mediates for us, as a defense attorney mediates for his client, telling the judge, "Your honor, my client is innocent of all charges against him." His credentials to be our mediator are that He came to this earth and suffered temptation as we do and because He died on our behalf, in payment for our sins. These gave Him the documentation and the authority to present us as perfectly sinless before God. It is because of the great Mediator that we can stand before God clothed in the righteousness of Christ Himself. His mediation is the only means of salvation.
